THE SPORTSMAN.

This is the season of the year when, with bag and gun, the hunter goes into the woods to have a lot of fun.

He sees a partridge on a limb and takes a careful aim. He fires. The partridge whirrs away unhurt—the same old game.

The whole day long he tramps around. Until the night comes down, and then he seeks the nearest way to get back into town.

Into the market then he goes. Some partridges to buy; And when he shows them to his friends They wink the other eye.

Rabbits are ripe, and made their first appearance in market yesterday.

THE Lord Lieutenant of Ireland is, to use a phrase in vogue among lawyers, damnosa hereditas. The salary attached to the office is $100,000 per annum, and is charged on the consolidated fund. The necessary expenses of the post are, however, far in excess of the salary.

UNCLE JOSH BLANTON is one of the characters about Flemingsburg, and full of peculiarities. The other day a youthful admirer of Christopher Columbus invited Uncle Josh to participate in the pageant on Columbus Day, when he replied, "damno, I'm a Republican."

THE WAY TO VOTE.

READ OVER THESE DIRECTIONS CAREFULLY AND FOLLOW THEM.

It is an Easy Matter to Vote Under the New Law if You Will Study It—Ballots Not Marked Intelligibly Will Not be Counted.

So much has been said and written about the intricacies of the new election law that people who have not read it really think it will be a very troublesome matter to vote under the new system.

It is in fact a simple matter, especially for those persons who wish to vote a straight ticket. The names of all the candidates of every party are printed on one ballot, the candidates of each party square containing the Eagle will show that you have voted for each and every candidate on the Republican ticket and your vote will be so counted.

If a person desires to vote for one or more candidates of a different party an X mark shall be stamped in the small square opposite and to the right of such candidates' names. For instance, should a voter desire to vote the Democratic ticket with the exception of say Circuit Judge for which office he wishes to vote for the Republican candidate, he will make his X mark in the square containing the Rooster and also an X mark in the small square to the right of the name of the Republican candidate. Should anyone wish to vote for the Democratic National ticket and for any or all of the other Republican candidates the same being in a separate column, at the head of which column is the device of that party, inclosed in a square. Immediately under this square will be placed the name or title of the party ticket, and immediately under the name the list of candidates of the party will be printed, the name of each candidate having on its right a small square for use in case a voter wishes to vote for candidates of different parties.

A voter upon applying at the polls, after his name and residence shall have been taken, will be handed one ballot with which he shall retire to one of the voting booths, which will be provided in each precinct. If he desires to vote for each and every candidate of one party he shall make a cross mark (X) inside the square embracing the device of that party.

Each voting booth will be provided with a rubber stamp with which to make the X, and no lead pencil must be used. The X in the square containing the device shows that the voter has voted for every candidate of that party, and no other marks must be made.

The device of the Republican party is the Eagle; that of the Democratic party the Rooster; of the People's party a Plow and Sledge-hammer; of the Prohibitionists the Phoenix, a bird which somewhat resembles the Eagle and which voters desiring to vote the Republican ticket must be careful not to mistake for the Republican device. The X mark inside the rule will apply. The X mark must be placed in the square to the right of each candidate on the Republican ticket for whom you wish to vote if you have made an X mark under the Rooster indicating your desire to vote for Cleveland.

Any elector who declares on oath that, by reason of inability to read the English language, he is unable to mark his ball X, may declare his choice of candidates or party ticket to the Clerk, who, in the presence of the Judges, Sheriff and challengers, and the elector, shall, with his pencil, mark a dot in the appropriate place for the cross mark, to indicate the choice of the elector. The Clerk shall then fold and deliver the ballot to the elector, and instruct him to retire to the booth and there mark his ballot by making a cross mark in the squares showing dots.

If a voter does not wish to vote for any candidate for a certain office, or wishes to vote in only one race or more, he shall then place his X mark in the square opposite the names of each and every candidate for whom he wishes to vote and make no mark in the square containing the device of any party.

The polls shall be opened at 7 o'clock in the forenoon and kept open continuously up to and closed at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day; and before receiving the ballot of any elector, the officers of election shall cause to be proclaimed that such election is opened.

No person, other than the election officers, shall remain within fifty feet of the polls, except when voting. Provided, That each political party may appoint one challenger for each precinct, who shall be entitled to stay in the room or at the door thereof. Such challenger shall be appointed in writing by the Chairman of the county or other local committee of their political party, and shall produce written appointments on demand of any of the officers of election.

When the polls are closed the officers of election shall, in the voting room, immediately count the votes, and certify the same as hereinafter provided; and no adjournment shall be had until the same is completed. When the result of the ballot is ascertained, it shall be immediately announced by one of the judges in front of the voting room, and thereupon, the judges shall, in the presence of the Clerk, Sheriff and the Inspectors destroy the ballots voted, mutilated or spoiled, and the ballots remaining unvoted: Provided, That if there are any ballots cast and counted, or left uncounted, concerning the legality or regularity of which there is any doubt or difference of opinion in the minds of the Judges of election, said ballots shall not be destroyed, but sealed up and returned to the Clerk of the County Court with the returns of the election, for such judicial or other investigation as may be necessary, with a true statement as to whether they have or have not been counted, and, if counted, what part, and for whom.

We print herewith a partial likeness of the ballot as it will appear. The Democratic and Republican tickets are arranged just as they will appear on the regular ballot. To the right of the Republican ticket on the official ballot will be placed the People's party, the Prohibition and the Independent tickets in the order named.

Place your X mark under the Eagle and inside the square and there is no possibility of making a mistake.

A NOVEL DUEL

Four Circus Elephants Have a Savage Fight.

The Night at Peru, Ind., Turned Into Bedlam by the Beasts.

Diamond Attacked by Prince, Tobl and Pilot—The Roar of the Beasts and the Moans of the Injured Ruined the Country for Miles Around.

PERU, Ind., Oct. 25.—A novel duel took place in the big elephant barn at Wallace's new winter quarters. The four big male elephants, Diamond, Prince, Tobl and Pilot, who are generally on the best of terms, had a general fight, the result of very bad blood that had been stirred up by the arrival of one of the female elephants, Gypsy, who, with three other females, have been rented to different shows this season.

Gypsy finished her season a few days ago and arrived back at winter quarters, being placed, as usual, next to her lover, Diamond, whom she seems to think very well of, although she coquettes very often with the three other ponderous swains in her neighborhood.

Diamond has always been tactically acknowledged as the ruler of the roost, but he found his title suddenly and most successfully disputed, for, taking advantage of Mr. Sweeney's (their trainer) absence, the three other brute fell on him with roars that brought everybody out of bed and made the buildings tremble. Had the animals been able to wreak their full vengeance on the unhappy "Diamond" they would have undoubtedly killed him, but the chains they are tied with only give them about ten feet play, and this prevented a fatal termination of the duel. As it was, the combined efforts of "Prince" and "Tobl" forced "Diamond" through the sixteen inch brick wall of the elephant building, taking out a section some fourteen feet in diameter, right where the wall is reinforced by a twelve-inch pilaster, of which there are thirty at intervals around the building. The din was something awful and beyond description. The screams and trumpeting of the combatants soon started the occupants of the cages in the cat animal building and hay animal barns, and the shrill screeches and roars of tigers, lions, hyenas, leopards and a hundred other beasts, with the doleful moans of the fourteen camels confined there, swelled the infernal noise until it was heard on the upper farm one and a half miles away.

A man was dispatched to town for Sweeney, who went flying to the scene of battle, and on his arrival took a hand in the row, regulating the warriors in short order.

The interior of the barn resembles a slaughter-house, the walls and floor bespattered with blood. Diamond, minus half of his tusks, an ear torn half off and covered with cuts and bruises, now occupies a remote corner, solitary, alone and vanquished, occasionally cocking his shrewd old eye at Prince, the victor, who, in the warmest corner of the barn, and next to Gypsy, who has transferred her affections, is fully enjoying the privileges and comforts always yielded to valor and superior strength.

Diamond, however, left his mark on all three of his antagonists, and it is likely that as often as an opportunity presents itself he will retaliate with interest on one at a time, until he settles the score and regains his proud position of leader, which he has held by virtue of his gigantic size for years undisputed.

These vast brutes appear to reason, and actually feel some things very much like human beings. Diamond shows his jealousy in many different ways, and resents any attempt to dress his wounds, showing his humiliation over the "licking" he received, and developments are awaited with a great deal of interest at winter quarters.

THE Weather. —For Ohio and Western Pennsylvania—Fair in the interior, light local showers at lake stations; continued cold, northwesterly winds, except slightly warmer in southwestern Ohio.

For Tennessee and Kentucky—Fair; northerly winds.

For West Virginia—Fair; a slight rise in temperature; northwesterly winds.

For Indiana and Illinois—Fair; northwesterly winds; slightly warmer in extreme northern portions.

Richmond Terminal.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The Richmond Terminal investigating committee, it is said, has made some interesting discoveries about certain handling of property that may lead to criminal proceedings against well-known parties heretofore identified with the management. A directors' meeting was called to hear the report, but nothing was given out. It is said that the report will be deferred for the present.

Damages for Injuries by a Bull. —NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 25.—A curious damage suit was decided here Tuesday. Some time ago Mrs. J. P. Baird crossed a lot belonging to Joseph Vaulx. Mrs. Baird wore a flaming red dress, and it aroused the ire of a fine bull belonging to Vaulx. The bull chased her, and hooked her, seriously injuring her. The jury gave Mrs. Baird a verdict of $3,500.

There Will Be an Educational Building. —CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—At a meeting of the World's fair board of control, Tuesday, Director of Works Burnham was instructed to draw up plans for a $150,000 educational building, with 150,000 square feet of space. A special meeting of the board of directors will be called to consider this matter.

Prominent Men Missing. —CRENSHAW, Colo., Oct. 25.—Three months ago three of our most prominent citizens, Dr. Dawson, Bill Morris and Ed. Faust, went hunting, and they have never been heard from since. They had considerable money in their possession, and foul play is feared.
